

New Boxing Club home at heart of community

Guildford City Boxing Club has a new home at the Park Barn Community Centre and is looking forward to training future champions

Guildford City Boxing Club has now moved into its new home at Park Barn Community Centre. The site was opened last summer with Anne Milton and Tony Oakey, the retired British, Commonwealth, and World light heavyweight champion.

The club works with people from many different communities and offers training for everyone, from novices to professionals and anyone who wishes to improve their personal fitness.

Anne said: "I'm really pleased that this fantastic, friendly club has a new home within the community. This site has a proud history as a former Judo and Tae Kwon-do venue and it's great to see it once again being used for the community."

"I am particularly pleased that girls will now have a real opportunity to participate at this new venue and I'm certain the girls of Guildford will be at least as successful as the boys."

Two of the club's most successful boxers, Felix Cash and Jake Ball, are both in the GB Podium Potential squad for the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro.

A Green corridor linking Guildford

Cllrs Matt Furniss and Nikki Nelson-Smith at Stoke Park, potentially part of the corridor.

As part of work to tackle congestion, Conservative Councillors are working to introduce a safe Green Corridor across Guildford Town.

This Corridor will prioritise pedestrians, cyclists and busses, creating a safe route across Guildford from Burpham to Slyfield, The Spectrum Leisure Centre, Guildford College, Guildford Railway Station, The University of Surrey and the Royal County Surrey Hospital.

"This safe Green Corridor across Guildford Town will link up businesses, residents and key services without the need to rely on the car"

Cllr Matt Furniss, Lead Councillor for the Environment, said: "This will link up businesses, residents and key services without the need to rely on cars."

CONSERVATIVES SAY GREEN BELT TO STAY

Party promises to protect the Green Belt and focus new development on Brown Field sites following public consultation and residents' views.

Conservatives in Guildford have listened to residents' concerns about Green Belt development.

Every Council must go through a Local Plan process, setting out how it will meet the need for housing during the next decade.

Initially the Government demands that all options be considered.

But following a thorough public consultation, it is clear that Guildford wants to keep its green spaces and Green Belt.

That is why the Conservative Party is pledging to focus on providing new homes on Brown Field sites.

Development on Merrow Downs and Pewley Hill have been ruled out.

Plans at Blackwell Farm and Fairlands are strongly opposed by local Conservative candidates.

Anne Milton and Guildford Conservatives — Good Government for Guildford

Representing You

By Anne Milton MP

I cannot believe that it has been almost five years since I heard the news that I had been returned for the second time as your MP.

So much has changed since then — in Guildford, in Westminster and politics generally. But my sense of pride in being your MP and representing this wonderful area that we all share remains undimmed. I'm honoured to be able to stand as a candidate again.

The most important thing for me to do is to thank all of you, the residents of Guildford and the villages, for making my job so fulfilling. I am fascinated to meet so many interesting, public-spirited and even courageous people on a regular basis. I am delighted to be able to help when I can.

I hope everyone in the constituency knows that my dedicated team and I are always available for help and advice; if you have a problem or concern, please never hesitate to get in touch.

We have achieved a great deal as a Coalition

Anne Milton MP

Government and both political parties have worked very well together; much better than anyone imagined they would. Of course, it has had its challenges but the economic circumstances have not been easy. We are now on the road to recovery and with a long-term economic plan we can look ahead to a brighter future for us all and our families.

Please let me know if there is anything I can do and I look forward to meeting you again soon.

Best wishes,

Conservatives protects Council Tax scheme for vulnerable residents

Party confirms that the Local Council Tax Support scheme reductions will not be passed on to Guildford's residents

To help protect those most in need, Conservatives in Guildford have ensured no reductions to Guildford's Local Council Tax Support scheme.

This has been achieved despite a reduction in grant funding by absorbing the difference into the Council's overall budget rather than passing it on to households who might struggle to cope with reduced income.

Cllr Sarah Creedy, Lead Councillor for Social Welfare, said: "We want to make

Securing investment in Guildford's future

Anne Milton is joined by John Hayes MP, Minister of State at the Department of Transport and Cllrs Matt Furniss and Mark Brett-Warburton to celebrate the debt-free infrastructure funding in Guildford

Guildford Conservatives, working with the Enterprise M3 Local Enterprise Partnership (LEP), has secured more than £15million to support economic growth in the area.

The funding demonstrates the economic importance of Guildford and means a number of key projects can go ahead, stimulating economic prosperity.

There is an investment of £5m in the University of Surrey's 5G Mobile Technologies Arrow Project, £2.7m in the Guildford Gyratory project, a commitment from the Government for £3.7m for sustainable transport improvements in Guildford and another £3.7m for improved access to retail and employment sites in the Borough.

Cllr Matt Furniss, Lead Councillor for Infrastructure, said: "This funding is great news for Guildford. The Conservatives are determined to realise this Borough's potential for prosperity for all residents and this money will help everyone in Guildford reap the benefits of growth."

News in brief

Guildford parking charges frozen

Conservatives have frozen car park fees at all short-term car parks this year, helping local businesses in Guildford. Residents' charges will also not change for 2015/16.

This is coupled with a new pay-by-phone feature in all car parks so shoppers don't need to rush back to their car, making parking even more convenient.

Recycling hits 70%!

Guildford has said "yes" to new recycling changes, with a 92% satisfaction rating with the new scheme.

Olympic Juno celebrates Guildford's Legacy

A steel sculpture by Ian Campbell-Briggs celebrating the Olympic Torch Relay has taken pride of place at G Live. The sculpture, depicting a figure carrying the Olympic Torch, has been christened "Juno" — the goddess of all Olympians.

Guildford MP Anne Milton said: "I am delighted that this sculpture provides a lasting reminder of the role that Guildford played in the 2012 Olympic Games.

"The Olympic Torch procession finished at Stoke Park where we hosted a celebration event for more than 40,000 people as the torch took its final journey to London.

"We also had the Olympic Cycle Races pass through Guildford and the events have left a real legacy for the borough. It is fantastic that the Council has chosen to celebrate this with a permanent memorial."

Artist Ian Campbell-Briggs said: "The form is an exoskeleton with no internal armature, which meant bending and welding more than four hundred separate sections of steel resulting in approximately two thousand welds."
