

David Snipp The effective, experienced choice for Guildford North

About David

David first moved to Guildford 34 years ago where he worked as a COBOL programmer on the Payroll System at the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries & Food (MAFF) on the Epsom Road.

It was there he met his future wife Pauline, who was the Canteen Manageress. She also worked on a market stall in North Street at the weekend.

David then went on to write software professionally for the BBC Micro and was the first developer in the UK on Windows 1, then worked at IBM on OS/2 and then Microsoft in Seattle on Windows NT before returning back to the UK to set up his own software company in 1993, long before the internet became a fixture in every household.

The company is still running, he is still married and they have two grown up sons. He campaigned for Brexit and enjoyed the political debate so much he decided to apply to become a council candidate.

David is a keen cyclist in his spare time

His experience in business and technology has given him a reputation as someone who gets things done and he is keen to serve the residents of Guildford North.

David's priorities are social care, highways and traffic and good schools. He wants to make a difference to our area and is already out on the doorstep listening to the views of residents in Queen Elizabeth Park, Stoughton, Bellfields and Weyside. He will be going all around our area over the next few weeks and looks forward to meeting as many residents as possible.

David can be our voice at County

David is a husband, father of two and a successful businessman with a deep understanding of technology that is intertwined in nearly everything we rely on today.

With many friends and family living in Guildford North, David sees every day how solvable problems can affect their lives. With his proven problem-solving skills combined with his energy and enthusiasm for our area, he can make a real difference.

Surrey is a beautiful county and Guildford is a lovely town but David believes he can make it even better. David said: "I really hope that Guildford North will vote for change on 4 May and elect someone who can get residents' voices heard at the heart of Surrey County Council."

David believes our area is a great one to live in but needs some work to make it even better

My six-point plan for Guildford North

- 1 Adult Social Care With an aging and growing population we need to make sure our elderly residents are properly cared for. We need to look at innovative and practical solutions to solve this very important issue.
- 2 Traffic Access to and from the A3 as well as the flow of traffic through Guildford must be improved – especially at peak times. We need better bus services and better cycle paths to encourage fewer cars travelling into Guildford.
- 3 Parking Cars often have to park on kerbs and pavements causing congestion and severe problems for emergency services. We need more parking areas.
- 4 Quality of Roads There are too many potholes that aren't repaired quickly enough and permanently. Stoughton Road in particular needs much work.

- 5 Affordable Housing Young people, including David's own children, cannot afford to live in Surrey. Without more affordable housing we will be creating a generational crisis.
- 6 Infrastructure We need more doctor's clinics, more schools and better flood management all while protecting the environment. This is a challenge but David knows that working with residents, we can meet it together.
